COURSE OUTLINE

Course Code / Title: HS3011 / Power, Politics, and the State

Pre-requisites: Any two of the following 2000 level core courses:
- HS2001 Classical Social Theory,
- HS2002 Doing Social Research,
- HS2003 Economy and Society,
- HS2004 Culture, Self and Identity,
- HS2005 Organisations and Organisational Change

No. of AUs: 3 AUs

Contact Hours: 2-hours of lecture and 1-hour tutorial per week
Total: 39 contact hours

Course Aims

Power is a fundamental feature of social life, and it is manifested most obviously in the role of political institutions, especially in the modern nation-state. This course examines the nature and exercise of power and political control. What is the nature of power? How does it work? Who has it, and how is it exercised? What are states and what are the consequences of their rule? How do we conceptualize political action? What is civil society and what is its relationship to the state? These are some of the questions we will examine in this course.

The course is organized thematically. We begin by looking at how sociologists have thought about power. In particular, we examine how Marx, Weber and scholars who work in Marxist and Weberian traditions have conceptualized power, politics and the state. We then turn to critical—especially feminist and post-structuralist—responses to these approaches.

The second section focuses on the myriad manifestations of state power, both overt and subtle. We begin by first examining the various typologies of state power—totalitarianism, democracy, authoritarianism. In the rest of this section, we study how state power is exercised in multiple realms of social life—work; welfare; education; and on the body.

In the final section, we reflect on how state power might be challenged. This section focuses on the forging of overtly political relationships between states and societies. We think about what constitutes civil society and the role of social movements.

This is an intensive course suitable for undergraduates at an intermediate or advanced level. It provides students an opportunity to think more deeply about what they have learnt in the core sociology subjects and develop understanding of some central issues in political sociology.
Intended Learning Outcomes (ILO)

By the end of the course, you should be able to:

1. Evaluate the different ways sociologists have approached the study of power, politics, and the state.
2. Articulate examples about how power is exercised at different levels—micro, meso, and macro.
3. Describe key problematics when it comes to understanding contemporary state-society relations.
4. Apply critical lenses to contemporary manifestations of state power.

Course Content

Week 1    Introduction to the course
Key concepts:   Political sociology

Week 2    Conceptualizing “power”: what is it, and how is it social?
Key concepts:   Power
                Politics
                The state

Week 3    Marx and Marxists: What is the nature of power?
Key concepts:   Capitalism
                Neoliberalism

Week 4    Weber and Weberians: how does power work?
Key concepts:   Legitimacy
                Domination

                Institutionalized power

Week 5    Critical responses to Marx and Weber: how else might we think of power, politics and the state?
Key concepts:   Feminism
                Heteronormativity

                Differentiated deservedness

Week 6    Typologies of political systems: democracy, totalitarianism, authoritarianism
Key concepts:   Democracy
                Authoritarianism

Week 7    Institutionalized state power: welfare and work
Key concepts:   Cultural politics

                Welfare
Week 8
Institutionalized state power: education

Key concepts:
- Meritocracy
- Cultural capital
- Symbolic violence

Week 9
State power and the body: managing populations

Key concepts:
- Governmentality

Week 10
States and civil society

Key concepts:
- Civil society

Week 11

Key concepts:
- Theory and application
- How to use theory to understand contemporary context

Week 12
Collective action/social movements

Key concepts:
- Resistance
- Collective action

Week 13
Review: What have we learnt?

Course Assessment (To be specific)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Component</th>
<th>Percentage</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>CA1</td>
<td>30%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CA2</td>
<td>15%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CA3</td>
<td>15%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CA4</td>
<td>10%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Final Examination</td>
<td>30%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total</td>
<td>100%</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>